

Albany crime rate up and so are arrests

ALBANY — Even though crime in Albany increased last year, an analysis of the Chief of Police James R. Simmons shows Albany's crime rate is the lowest in the North Bay Area, and much lower than the national average.

With a total of 1,437 arrests for 1978 as against 1,220 in 1977, an analysis of the Chief's report shows the increase is due to, in the greater part, more activity in violent offenses with a marked rise on the part of male offenders. The juvenile crime rate rose 8.6 percent last year over the previous year and resulted in a total of 190 cases as against 177 total of 1977. The arrests showed a 11.5 percent rise with 253 juveniles arrested as against 227 for 1977. The arrest of female juveniles rose amazingly 114 percent for felony offenses. In the whole category of juvenile crime, female arrests in 1978 increased by 45.5 percent while male arrests in the juvenile classification increased by 26.2 percent.

During 1978 there were more robberies in Albany than in 1977 when only 10 were reported to the local police. The increase was 100 percent, but the figure for the more robberies is not as high as the increase in burglaries. Albany dropped from 280 in 1977 to 280 in 1978 as against 280 in 1977. Of the 280 burglaries reported in 1978, 10 were residential with a percentage of 42.5 percent and an average loss of $450.89. On a national basis, it is reported there is a 10 percent clearance rate for burglary. The national figure of 16 percent, compiled by William H. Oster, director of the FBI, as compared to the clearance record of 42.5 percent for Albany makes the local police department's record an outstanding achievement.

Most of the burglaries occurred in 1978, during June and October being the "hottest" month of the year. In the same vein, the highest number of burglaries occurred in the hours on Sunday with 10, and the "slowest" for burglars. Private homes were hit hardest and 10 of the burglars entered through open or unlocked doors and windows. As far as commercial establishments were concerned, Albany's business had an increase in burglaries from 62 cases in 1977 to 99 in 1978, but more were cleared during 1978 than in 1977. 1978 had 38 burglaries cleared by the police, as against 30 in 1977. Japanese to commemorate detention ALBANY — Monday, February 19, marks the 37th anniversary of the Executive Order 9066, issued by President Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1942, which led to the mass incarceration of Japanese Americans.

The old Tanforan Racetrack in San Bruno became a "detention camp" for the 8,033 Japanese American residents of the West Coast. It was the beginning of their 10-and-a-half years in American concentration camps.

No person shall be deprived of life, liberty, or property without due process of law. The "accused" shall enjoy the right to a fair and public trial by an impartial jury and to be informed of the nature and cause of the accusation. These protections are guaranteed in the 5th and 14th Amendments to the Constitution.

However, during 1942-46, 77,000 American citizens of Japanese ancestry, 83,000 Japanese nationals, most of whom were permanent U.S. residents, were summarily deprived of liberty and property without criminal charges, without trial of any kind. Several persons also were violently deprived of their property.

Persons of Japanese ancestry on the West Coast were expelled from homes and confined in detention camps. They were the only ones singled

Exam set for new police

ALBANY — Applications are being accepted by the Albany Civil Service Commission for the position of police officer. It was announced by Jerry Corniola, newly selected chairman of the Commission.

The final filing date has been set for March 14, with the written test to be given on March 24 and the agility test slated for three to four weeks after the written test. The oral examination is the final step, it was said. The written test will carry a relative weight of 70 percent, while the oral interview will carry 30 percent of the test. The agility test doesn't carry any score, but all applicants who pass the written test must take the agility test.

Applicants should have a thorough knowledge of police laws and ordinances of the state, county and the city of Albany and be an outstanding citizen. Application forms may be obtained, in person by the one to take the examination, at Albany City Hall, 1000 San Pablo Avenue, between 8:30 a.m. and 5 p.m. Monday.

WINNERS — Mayor Lewis M. Howell, left, and Councilman Robert Luoma, sit with Rene McWilliams and Mrs. Howell at Golden Gate Fields prior to the running of the Albany Handicap, feature race of Albany's Day at the Races. The two Albany City officials were participants in the day's festivities that raised some $4,500 - $5,000 for Albany Schools' music and athletic programs through the sale of raffle tickets for three Zenith television sets arranged through the courtesy of Supreme Television and Golden Gate Fields. Co-chairmen for the events at Golden Gate Fields were Charles McCully, Albany's Superintendent of Schools; James Walker, principal of Albany High School, and Hal Denham, manager of the Albany Chamber of Commerce. Both Mrs. Howell and Mrs. Denham had the long shot winner of the handicap.

Children subject of meet

ALBANY — Child Development Day is to be held at Marin School on Saturday, Feb. 24, according to an announcement by Kay Rabin.

The day is set to highlight the educational advantages of Albany Schools and will bring out a better parent-child relationship. A display of art by the children of the public school system is to be shown and bands from both Albany High School and Albany's Middle School will play during the day, it was said. There will be a song fest by both children and parents, finger foods and a sandwich smorgasbord potluck luncheon.

For the parents, there is to be an in-depth discussion on child discipline as relating to moral values and self esteem of the child. In addition, the discussion will outline how to spot troubles in children and how to become aware of child problems.

Family communications will be discussed by Dr. Steven Joseph, noted psychiatrist. He will show new ways to open communications within one's own family that should be of benefit to all attending the program.

Workshops are to be held during the day relating to parent-child relationships, family interaction, child to child relationships.

School survey reveals grads gripes, praise

ALBANY — In a recent survey sent to all graduates of the 1977 Class of Albany High School, some interesting results have emerged from the fifty percent who took the time to respond to the questionnaire.

Answering a series of questions put together by the faculty of Albany High School, the former students were queried on all phases of school activities and curriculum.

On the positive side, according to James Walker, principal of the school, were the high ratings given by former students to the business courses, English and math. The lowest ratings were given to foreign languages, science and social studies. One area, however, was criticized by the graduates. Most consistently in the answers were comments on student counseling. Less than 30 percent of the students responding to the queries felt counselors gave good information in planning their high school programs or in helping them prepare for post-graduation activities.

Commenting on this, Walker said "these students graduated almost two years ago; we've made changes in the counseling department since that time. For example, this year we have a new career education program and teacheradvisors. I expect this year's senior class will respond differently to the same questions."

The present occupation of the 1977 graduates divides almost evenly between school and work, with more than a third combining the two. The survey revealed slightly more than half of the college students attend a four year institution while about 41 percent are enrolled in community colleges.

The survey also revealed that of the working students, over two-thirds have jobs less than ten miles from Albany. Most of them have no complaint on their job, rate of pay or opportunities for advancement. Of the 67 percent who comprise the work force in the immediate area, only 24 percent of them have made a commitment to stay with their present employment.

In retrospect, the majority of the grads answering the survey recall most of their teachers made classes interesting and that the quality of Albany High School met their educational needs. They also, in the majority, agreed the teacher made the materials available for education material to them.

The one issue the students were questioned that brought the greatest response was in the area of

Corniola is named chairman

ALBANY — The regular meeting of the Albany Civil Service Commission was held last Wednesday with all members present. Robert Taylor presided as chairman.

On the reorganization of the Commission, Jerry Corniola was elected to succeed Taylor as chairman and Ed Howe was elected vice-chairman. After the selection of the new officers of the Commission, Thelma Rubin made a motion, that passed, thanking Taylor for his work as chairman of the Commission and offering him a vote of confidence for his continued work with the Commission.

During the meeting, a Resolution was presented to Bette Rhodes for her many years of work as secretary to the Commission. In addition to the honored guest, William E. Haden, City Administrator, Fire Chief Mike Koppke, City Councilwoman Joyce Jackson and Mrs. Ruth Ganong attended the presentation ceremony. Refreshments were served at the conclusion of the meeting.

Daniel Roche, an Albany firefighter, brought up the subject of the tests recently given for department promotions. In the Fire Captain test, which he took, he felt that some of the answers he was charged with being incorrect were, in his opinion, correct and asked for a re-evaluation of the test. He suggested a re-evaluation by the Civil Service Commission but the Board felt the checking should be done at the State level and ordered the tests sent to the California Cooperative Personnel Service. The seven applicants for the Fire Captain position did not pass the test, the highest score being 67.14 percent. On the other hand, the one person who took the examination for Assistant Chief scored 72.35 percent and passed the test.

According to Haden, the test is a new one and has been used by four agencies throughout the state with a total of 18 persons taking the test. Of the 18, the average was 60.16 percent, while the average for the Albany applicants was 60.5 percent. Out of the total of 18 taking the test, the scores ran from 73 percent to 43 percent. statewide, Albany's scores ran from a high of 73 percent to a low of 43 percent. According to Haden, the City Charter sets the passing grade and he suggested an average of 58.57 percent be made the passing grade. It can be done at the present time, however, and the California Cooperative Personnel Services has informed him they are evaluating the tests in about 90 to 100 days and he suggested the examination be re-scheduled for Fire Captain and a date of four to five months hence be set. The Commission would rather wait for the examination of the test by the Services

"Unorthodox" charge made by McGrath

ALBANY — Charging the operation of the present Board of Directors of McKinley Towers Neighborhood Council is "unorthodox," Mrs. Mary McGrath said she resigned as a Board member because of the dispute over the operation of the huge complex, not over personalities.

"I've tried to stay out of the dispute (the firing of Wallace J. Calloway, resident manager) because this is a difference in philosophy between the Board members and myself," Mrs. McGrath said.

A member of the board for two terms, Mrs. McGrath said she resigned over the assumption of management of the Gateview complex by the Board. She maintained she had been misquoted when it was reported by two of the Board members she had resigned because of the hiring of BSD as operational

AUSD may receive $176,000

ALBANY — The first step in a possible annual State payment of $176,000 to Albany Unified School District was taken last Wednesday at the California Senate in Sacramento, according to Charles E. McCully, Albany's Superintendent of Schools.

Senator Nicholas Petris of Alameda County, introduced SB 193 that, if enacted into law, will replace half of the money the local school district lost when Prop. 13 became law.

The bill by Senator Petris will enable all districts in California who derived three percent, or more, of the total budget revenues prior to Proposition 13 from county tax income for non-immigrant and non-citizen students, to recover lost revenues, McCully said. Prior to Prop. 13, a county-wide tax was levied and Alameda County reimbursed Albany for that amount of the budget that was revenue for the students' education. The Albany district certified the amount to the satisfaction of Alameda County's superintendent of schools.

The loss, due to the special funds from the non-immigrant and non-citizens funding amounts to $352,000 and in July 1979, there will be no money from any source to pick up the money that has been available in past years.

"SB 119 by Senator Petris is corrective legislation to replace money removed last year for non-immigrant and non-citizen students," McCully said. "It's introduction and passage in the Senate Education Committee is just the first step in a long, long road to success. We have to pass the Senate Finance Committee, then the Assembly Ways and Means Committee, then back to the full legislature and, finally, the Governor's signature before we are assured of the money."

"Albany is just one of several districts in the State that qualify for this money and it is hoped that the bill, which carries a grandfather clause; will pass, giving us the figure of $352,000 annually we had prior to Prop. 13. We must get this through, however, before July 1, 1979, as that

Adult classes begin tonight

ALBANY — Photography, Slides, Real Estate and Tole Painting are the assorted offerings of Albany Adult School's new term, beginning tonight.

The five-week classes were announced by Principal Lawrence J. Hughes, who can be reached for more information at 526-6811.

Beginning Photography will meet tonight from 7 to 9 in Room 110 at Albany High School. Dennis DeSilva is the instructor. He will teach the basics of camera operation, film, filters, light meters, depth of field and photo composition.

DeSilva will also teach the Color Slide class on Thursday, same time, same location. Students will shoot indoor and outdoor pictures and bring their 35mm slides in for evaluation and study purposes.

Tuition for both classes is $10 and can be paid at the first class meeting. A short-term real estate course for homeowners, renters or investors begins tonight at Albany High from 7 to 9. It also meets on Monday evenings. An East Bay realtor, William Hoppe, will teach the basic principles of real estate law, appraisals, contracts, escrow, closing costs and tax advantages.

The class may be used as partial preparation for the California real estate license examination. A $20 tuition is asked.

Finally, Tole Painting will begin Friday morning at 9:30, meeting in the fine arts studio of MacGregor, 601 San Gabriel Avenue. Told painting, or "folk art," usually appears on wooden, metal or clay pieces like flower pots, watering cans and bowls, and is easy to learn, according to instructor and East Bay artist Virginia Trautner.

Tuition for toling is $10 and can be paid at the first meeting.

The Albany Times is in receipt of a series of pictures, plus a most interesting letter, from former Chief of Police Lloyd G. Jester.

Chief Jester became head of the local police department in 1938 and was the second Chief of the department, succeeding Chief John Glavinovich, the first head of the Albany Police.

resident of Hayward, left Albany's police department in 1943 when he went into the Navy on a leave of absence. He was assigned to the Fourth Fleet under the command of Admiral Jonas Ingram, charged with keeping German cargo vessels from running from Argentina to Germany and to keep the seas free of the German U-Boats.

The Chief, who is now a has donated to the Albany Times date back to 1938. One of the most interesting of the group is one showing the entire Albany Police force in May, 1938. The force was composed of Chief Jester, Sgt. Charles Hardy, Patrolmen John Vierango, Harry Stevenson, Frank Davis, Ken Nickerson and Stanly Williams.

Williams became Chief when Chief Jester went into the Navy in 1943 and John Vierango became Chief of Police in Turlock.

In those days, the police officers owned their cars, the city supplied the gasoline and there were no two way radios; as a matter of fact, there wasn't at the time when Chief Jester took over, any police radio system. The men would report in from call boxes and if they were needed, they would be summoned by a whistle on the top of City Hall. With the advent of radio, Albany's first woman was hired for the police department. In 1939, Sigred Oakley was named clerk and soon became a full fledged police woman.

An abortion mill was operating in Albany and Chief Jester became aware of the mill, but needed someone to "get the goods" on the operators of the mill, so he made Oakley a policewoman to work the case. Her police work resulted in the closing of the mill, it might be noted.

In addition, Chief Jester, when he took over the department, installed a three way filing system that is still a model of cross filing for police departments. His innovation was so great it was picked up by J. Edgar Hoover as a model for small police departments throughout the country.

Chief Jester first came to Albany in 1930 and lived at 804 Talbot Ave. It was during Prohibition and he was an agent for the United States Department of Justice, and he was known in those days as a "prohi," charged with uncovering bootleggers and makers of illicit beer, wine and whiskey, gin or distilled spirits. He was, in all probability, the first East Bay Elliott Ness.

When Chief Jester first arrived in Albany, there was a sign, made up of electric lights, which spelled out "ALBANY" and the Southern Pacific was still running on Solano Avenue, through the tunnel into Berkeley, and there was a drinking fountain on the southwest of Solano and San Pablo, in a mini park. The old S.P. store at the corner took its name from the Red Trains that ended the line, a one-track rail, at San Pablo. The store was owned, Chief Jester said, by Max Ettingoff. His wife, Mrs. Katherine Ettingoff is still alive.

According to Chief Jester, in the days prior to the war, the residents of Albany were closer to each other. There was more socializing among the residents with whist parties, dances and a continual round of parties, etc., at the American Legion Hall. Chief Jester said he still going then, as they are now, with the Fire Chief being the pawn of the City Council. Every time a new Council was elected, or a new mayor named, a new Fire Chief was announced.

Notice

ALBANY — Albany City Hall offices, with the exception of police and fire departments, will be closed Monday, Feb. 19, because of Washington's Birthday. The City Council meeting will be held Tuesday in the Council Chambers starting at 8 p.m., according to Patricia Dempster, City Clerk.

Council meetings were just about the same then as they are now. In those days, the late Kathy Zahn was the thorn in the side of the City Council. She subsequently became a Councilwoman and was a great influence in city politics. According to Chief Jester, "some say she (Mrs. Zahn) turned out to be one of the better people to serve on that body."

At one time, students of high school grades went to Berkeley High School in Albany. Chief Jester noted. There was no busing of students and the children were not allowed tardiness nor were there any tutors for those that had been expelled from school for infractions of rules. "Once out, you stayed out," as Chief Jester put it.

Even in those days, there were the weekly dances. The American Legion sponsored a weekly dance at Marin School and to insure peace, they hired, or paid for, a special officer to police the dance and the area around the school. Chief Jester hired the man for the job and the first man he hired was Art Smith, whom he subsequently appointed as a patrolman with the Police Department.

Chief Jester touched on the parades that were held in Albany and reminisced about the famous Albany "4er" parades preceding the World's Fair at Treasure Island celebrating the opening of the Oakland-San Francisco Bay Bridge and the Golden Gate Bridge.

When war clouds gathered for World War II, Albany, under the direction of Chief Jester, organized a Civil Defense program that became the model for almost the entire country. It was in Albany where a school was established for First Aid, Fire and Bomb Defenses, Auxiliary Police and home care in case of emergency and in catastrophe. A minimum of 100 hours was needed to graduate from the school and many persons from outside of Albany were enrolled in the schools and received certificates, Chief Jester said. The Civil Defense program was that of the homeowners of Albany. Many of them set up a sterile room, stocked with food, water, medicines and bandages to be used as emergency rooms in case of bombing or attack that called for the use of Civil Defense. All of the programs were the brainchildren of Chief Jester, and it is one phase of his career in Albany that has been an outstanding achievement.

Then, as now, Albany took care of its senior citizens as well as pre-school children. Both were housed in buildings behind the old Times Building and were erected during the WPA days of 1932-38. Chief Jester said the two programs were started by Ed Howell, who later became Alameda County manager, and Ed Morris. Morris later was head of the school on First Aid and was in charge of the Red Cross program for Civil Defense.

During the Fair at Treasure Island, the police departments of Alameda, San Mateo and San Francisco counties furnished a number of men, according to the size of the individual department, to police the grounds and crowds. Albany furnished one man who was paid by the Fair authority. The Albany man, on a rotating basis, tried to work on time off so as not to lose pay from the city police department and not lose their regular day off. The Department also furnished off duty policemen for the football games at University of California. They were paid by the University and worked on their day off.

Chief Jester said he received quite a shock when he returned to Albany following the end of the war. The town had grown immensely and a great many new stores had opened on what, when he left, were vacant lots. He said it was a shock to find that many residents had forgotten him in the short ten years he had been out of Albany.

On the recommendation of J. Edgar Hoover, he was hired as Chief of Police of Fargo, North Dakota, and served there until he was called back into the Navy at the outbreak of the Korean conflict.

At the end of the Korean conflict, he came back to the area and worked for Frank Coakley, who was then District Attorney of Alameda County. He headed the bunco squad of the D.A.'s office and then was named a lieutenant to head up the Welfare Fraud Unit of the District Attorney's office where he had 10 detectives working under his direction plus an office force to make the department 38 strong. He also worked on the famous Abbott murder case for Coakley.

He is now retired completely, holding a card as a retired Commander in the U.S. Navy as well as being retired from the County of Alameda. With his wife, he still visits Albany and still is amazed at the vitality of the town.

Yup, you guessed it! John won a $5 jackpot!

State offers course for new boaters

ALBANY — If boat sales at San Francisco Sports and Boat Show are any indication, there will be more new boat operators heading out to the waterways.

To aid the new boaters, the state's boating agency is offering a boating safety course that they can take at home in their spare time. The course — called "Adventure Afloat" for short — is designed especially for the California boating family.

For $2.00, boaters will receive an 80-page handbook, safety pamphlets and final examination. The examination is optional, but those who successfully pass the test will receive a certificate of completion.

HOW AND WHY TO BUY THE RIGHT ENGINE OIL

FOR BETTER PERFORMANCE, USE OIL OF THE RIGHT QUALITY AND VISCOSITY.

Without enough oil in an engine, parts such as the pistons and bearings can literally melt from the heat caused by friction. Using the wrong kind of oil can also have a destructive effect. Either way, the engine can be seriously damaged.

A simple check of the oil level can prevent engine damage. If you're down one or more quarts, the engine will probably keep running for a while. But the shortage puts an extra burden on the oil that's left: it'll get dirty faster, reducing engine performance and increasing wear.

You'll get the most accurate results if you check the oil level after you've driven the car a fair distance. But wait at least a few minutes to allow the oil to drain back into the pan.

How often you need to add oil varies according to the age of your car, as well as how and where you drive. For example, new cars (those that have been driven less than 4,000 miles) may consume a little more oil until parts are broken in. Driving at high speeds, particularly in very hot weather, can also consume more oil. To be on the safe side, check the oil level every other time you get gas.

When you need oil, be sure to buy oil marked with the letters "SE." "SE" oil meets quality standards required by a GM engine; it has just the right mixture of base oil and additives.

It's generally all right to mix brands and to shop around for the lowest price as long as you stick with "SE" quality oil.

The viscosity of the oil can make a big difference in engine performance. Oil that's too thick won't flow properly, making it difficult to start the engine in cold weather. Oil that's too thin won't do the job right, either. Temperature affects viscosity: oil thickens in winter and thins in summer.

In most climates, it's best to use 10W30 or 10W40 SAE viscosity oil that you can leave in your car year-round.

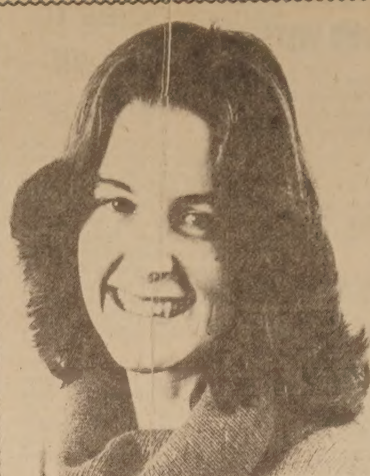

Change the oil and the oil filter at the intervals recommended in your GM Maintenance Schedule. Engine oil contains detergents that pick up particles of dirt and sludge. If the oil isn't changed periodically, extensive damage can occur. Remember, if you're pulling a trailer or driving in abnormally dusty conditions, change the oil more often.

We're designing engines that require less routine maintenance. But some things are still up to you. A well-maintained engine will be more reliable, last longer, and probably make your car worth more when you decide to trade it in or sell it.

Student of the Month

ALBANY — Thanks to Career Day and high school courses, Gail Twiss has made up her mind about the future: she has been accepted into UC San Diego and plans to major in biological sciences.

"I became really interested in this area through some biology courses I took," explained February's Student of the Month from Albany High School. "Then, last spring, I had a chance to listen to a speaker during Career Day and I made up my mind that biological sciences was what I wanted to do."

Gail has her hands full in her senior year. She attends a class at University of California-Berkeley under the Accelerated Placement program; is president of the senior class; serves on the Board of Control and works 15 hours a week at Baskin-Robbins. She still manages to squeeze in sports, as a member of the school's girls' basketball team.

Homework? "I always do it in the morning; I get up at about 6 a.m.," Gail explained.

The active senior likes being around people — lots of them. "I hate to be by myself; I like lots of people around," she said.

As Student of the Month, Gail will receive a $20 gift certificate and a free dinner at the local MacDonald's.

Y rummage sale coming up quickly

A rummage sale will be held at the Albany YMCA on Saturday, February 17 from 10:00-4:00 p.m. to benefit the Y's Kids Club, a unique after-school program for Albany elementary school children.

Clothing, furniture, and knick-knacks will be on display at 921 Kains Avenue, and donation articles will be accepted at the YMCA between 9:00 a.m. and 7:00 p.m. Mondays through Fridays. In addition to browsing through the articles for sale at the Y, participants are welcome to attend the Youth Basketball League games that are played in the Y gym on Saturdays.

"Lincoln Day" will be celebrated at the Albany YMCA with a day of special activities for elementary school children. February 12, a school holiday, will be a day of games, sports, gymnastics, bowling, candlemaking, and weaving for interested children 9:00-5:00 p.m. Cost of the program is $7.00 which includes a snack, beverage, and bowling fees. Supervision will be under the direction of college students and children are asked to bring a lunch and rain gear.

The Y's Kids Club is an inexpensive, after-school program designed for working parents. Available each school day from 1:50-6:00 p.m., the Y's Kids Club is held at Cornell School and activities range from crafts, sports, soccer, dancing, sketching and tutoring to bowling. Staff includes college students and high school students trained for leadership qualities. Interested parents may contact the YMCA at 526-4400.

Home helper reach Albany

ALBANY — Seniors and handicapped people in Albany can receive help from a new home helper service now through September. The service is provided by Bishops' Community, including shopping, laundry, meal preparation and companionship.

Bishops' Community non-profit organization provides a variety of services for seniors, including a congregate lunch program at their center in Albany, health clinic, and lawyer consultations.

Typically, a home helper works approximately 10 hours per week with a client. Those people in greater need can receive more time. A donation helps pay for travel to and from the client's home. The program, the North Albany Home Helper Project, is funded through the Associated Community Action Program of Albany County.

Those who would like service should call Diane Lary, or Greer at Bishops' Community, 465-6749. Bishops' Community is located at 287 West Street in downtown Albany.

February is heart month

OAKLAND — As if Valentine's Day weren't enough of a clue, February has been declared "Heart Month" by the president of the Alameda County Heart Association, Darel Larsen. "During Heart Month," Larsen says, "the American Heart Association tries to make the public aware of its critical fight against death and disability due to heart disease."

Thousands of Heart volunteers will be calling on their neighbors throughout Alameda County this month, soliciting gifts to the Heart Fund.

The Heart Association's Fourth Annual Valentine Day Run will begin at 10 a.m. Saturday. Bill Rodgers, the American Marathon record holder from Wesleyan University in Middletown, Connecticut, will speak at the Oakland Auditorium at 8 a.m. About 5000 runners of all ages and abilities are expected to compete.

"Only through broad public support," Larsen adds, "can the Heart Association carry on its programs in the areas of medical research, community education and service, and professional education."

OAKLAND — The Oakland Museum's total communication tour program for the hearing-impaired — organized and staffed by volunteers — is one of five efforts nationwide to be featured in a film introducing museum personnel to problems faced by handicapped visitors.

The film is part of a Museum Access Planning Seminars project, that includes training materials and promotional brochures suitable for use at any institution.

The Oakland program uses specially trained docents to conduct tours of Museum displays for deaf and hearing-impaired visitors, encouraging their participation in museum activities. Selected for inclusion in the film because of the key role played by volunteers, the Oakland program illustrates how museum access programs often depend more on ingenuity, creativity, and dedication than on money.

Athlete of the Week

ALBANY — Another wrestler has made the Albany High School Athlete of the Week honor roll. He is David Greer, a senior.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. David Greer, he also has a name for himself on the Cougar baseball team. In addition to that, he is "Shack Comic" in the school paper, The Informer.

He has a diversified outlook on sports and hobbies. He keeps busy with his fishing, diving, art, reading, listening to good music. He also has a wide circle of friends, he said.

According to his coach, Kermit Bankson, "Dixon is a very strong desire to learn as much as he can about wrestling. He is dedicated and is a hard worker." The proof of the coach's statement is in his performance as a member of the Gaucho wrestling team this year. He has been an outstanding athlete for school and won a great many of his matches against heavy odds.

He plans on entering Hayward State University in two years and then transfer to University of California for his major, either art or engineering.

He has traveled to the Eastern part of the United States and has been to Hawaii and hopes to explore other parts of the world upon completion of his education, he said.

Merry Jax still lead the pack at Albany Bowl

By PHIL ALSTON

Randy Felix pitched games of 209-238-219 for 666 series in leading his front running Merry Jax mates to an impressive 19 to 6 victory over Franklin Electronics in the 910 Major League at Albany Bowl.

In raising his average for the season to 199, Felix helped the Jax to their seventh consecutive decision and an awesome 30 point margin over their nearest pursuers.

Obviously, Felix didn't do it all by himself. Jeff Key added 644, John Taylor 632, Phil Niemi picked up three points by winning each of his matches on a 586 series and Jim Campbell's 212 game paced the team to its opening game win.

The Majors' best set was Hal Friis' 695 on counts of 221-236-238 for Associated Coin Amusements but his efforts were wasted (19-6) in the face of Al Ochoa's 673 and Paco Vasquez's 627 for Jack's Auto Body Shop.

O&R Vending moved back into second place with a 2-2-3 blast. Desperation, and Diablo Bowling Supply thrashed Rod's Coffee Shop 16 to 9. Ron Selak had 234 game and 616 series for O & R Vending.

Gibbs Bookkeeping Services improved their first place position in the 870 Commercial by clouting Real Estate Place 19 to 6 behind Emily Simon's 582. The Commercial's best was a 660 series by Ralph Butler.

Rogue Layson continued to sparkle, leading Graphic Arts with 602 and Nevada Tahoe Tours with 599.

For the ladies the leader was Kathy Bennett, who achieved personal highs of 231 game and 618 series in the Hawaiian Mixed League. Denise Altman paced the Majorettes with 558, and Inez Scrivner shot 545 for TGIF. Jeanne Bell had 559 in Fratellanza Mixed and Alice Strachelek 541 in the Brass Rail.

Jim Walker gave Plaza Mixers a strong 627 set with all three games above 200, and Lewis Love hit an even 600 for Pacific Stereo.

Other leaders included Larry Belote with 559 for the 184 Club, Jerry Watkins 574 for Foster Freeze, Woody McGee 558 in Thursday Sleepers, Al Zehetmir 555 for Berkeley Elks, Bunni Turner 573 for After Dinner Pours, Curt Applegate 587 in the Friday Invitational and Chet Alexander 585 for Sons in Retirement.

During 1978, the total mileage of all the police cars came to 200,072, but gasoline consumption dropped by 1,610 gallons in 1978 as against 1977. The number of police vehicles remained at 12 as in previous years, but the increase in mileage reflects the efforts of keeping the cars in tip-top mechanical condition.

The report, 23 pages long, was submitted to the Albany City Council at the meeting last night.

arrest for a rate of 58.58 percent as against the national average of 16 percent. The total business loss was $23,889.04 for an average loss in Albany of $241.30, down from 1977 loss of $24,052.89 and an average loss of $387.92. The clearance rate for 1977 of 26 cases came to a percentage of 41.93. Again June was the month of the greatest activity with a total of 14 recorded offenses while March and November showed the least activity with only four cases each month.

During 1978, Albany recorded one murder, the killing of Geoffrey Westerlund in November. The Albany police arrested a couple who have been charged with the crime.
Other crimes, as reported by Chief Simmons, included four reported kidnaps, three rapes and two attempted rapes during 1978. As in past years, auto theft was one of the leaders in the crime statistics with a reported 79 cars stolen in 1978 as against 54 in 1977. The recovery rate, however, was better in 1978 when 63 cars were returned for an increase of 14.5 percent.

On a comparison basis of the policing agencies of the area, the Albany force of 23 men and five clerical workers and Chief Simmons shows up very well as to both crime suppression and crime clearance. It might be noted that there was no increase in the personnel of the police department during 1978. The work force remained at 33 with four civilian employees.

Extra-curricular activities rated high in the survey, with most graduates not regretting their participation in sports and club activities open to them on the campus. Of the entire survey, only 14 percent were bitter enough to answer "no" to the question "Was high school a pleasant and rewarding experience?"

In addition, workshops are to be held on pre-adolescents and teenagers, single parenting, and how hard children should be pushed. The workshops are to be staffed with professionals, many of them from the Albany school system, Mrs. Rabin said.

There is no charge for any of the discussions or workshops, it was announced, and another Child Development Day has been set for March 3.
Pre-registration forms for Child Development Days may be obtained from Sara Blackstock, 525-5237, chairperson for the events; Marin School, Kay Rabin, 527-6052 or Charlotte Saulsbury, 525-9542.

Development Day is a joint effort by the parents from Cornell, Marin, Vista and Middle Schools and child care for those attending the workshops and discussions will be provided for a nominal charge. Mrs. Rabin announced. Pre-registration for either or both days is a must and the forms must be returned to Marin School, 1001 Santa Fe Ave. The registration form asks for preference in the workshops to be given on Feb. 24 and asks the applicant to make four choices of subjects they wish to attend during the day. A completely different set of workshops are to be held at the March 3 session, it was announced. Hours for both days are from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

The editor of the Gateview Newsletter, Mrs. McGrath said she outlined the position of the Board of Directors in the December issue when she wrote "The residents have indicated many times that the majority of them prefer an on-site manager. The role BSD will play here, therefore, will be limited to providing services. The Board has not engaged them in their "Property Management" capacity. As the Board sees it, the functions BSD will handle are primarily to be administrative. They will be expected to take care of the fiscal affairs of the Association and to be available for consultation."

"Mr. Calloway's position and responsibilities as Resident Manager will be unchanged. However, he will be relieved of administrative functions and will be able to concentrate on building management."
At the last election for members of the Board of Directors, Mrs. McGrath came in second in the polling, she said. She also emphasized she has no personal animosity towards any of the Board members, and only has spoken out to clarify what seems to have been a clouded issue at Gateview.

On the mutual aid plan the Albany Fire Department ambulance answered a call from Berkeley about a man down in the middle of the street at the corner of Oxford and Eunice. T. ambulance took Bill Healey, 31, to Herrick Memorial Hospital for further treatment.

An apparent heart attack sent Kenneth Stone, 69, 100 block of Ramona, to Herrick last Friday.

Gerald Banks, Jr., who operates Albany Square, 600 San Pablo Avenue, reported to the fire department he had a $2,000 fire in the utility room of a commercial complex in Wednesday. According to his report Friday to the Fire Department, more blueprints and cleaning accessories were lost in a blaze caused when an electric switch blew up. The major part of the damage was smoke damage to interior of the room.

A pain in his hip, opposite the one recently operated on, sent Merrill Muls, 69, block of Beverly Place, Herrick last Thursday.

A call from Alco Chemical Thursday sent the ambulance crew from the Fire Department to the home of Winifred Beale, 73, 100 block of San Carlos. She was found unconscious and was transported to Herrick by the crew.

As a result of an alteration, Howard Franks was taken from 1800 San Pablo Avenue, to Herrick Hospital for treatment of lacerations of the face and head.

John Perry, 500 Pomona, suffered a seizure Wednesday and was taken to Herrick for treatment of the ambulance crew.

She said the rules and regulations of the Association specifically state that matters of management be carried to the homeowners and that a 51 percent majority is needed to make the changes that have been made by the present Board of Directors.

Gateview Corporation. These same few individuals who appear at Albany Council meetings do not represent the thinking of the majority of homeowners!

ESTELLE GIRANDE
Dear Sir:
After reading the Wednesday, Feb. 7th issue of the Albany Times, and in particular, the answer to charges by two members of the Board of Directors of McKinley Towers - Gateview, we felt impelled to write because we are embarrassed by the fact that we were taken in by the Board's various allegations and promises of great achievements from the time we helped vote them into office to the present. In fact, some of us admittedly were quite indignant and supported the Board when opposing views were voiced. We honestly believed their chatter until the January 9th meeting of the Board and its January 23 meeting (minutes of neither having as set been posted on the bulletin boards). These two meetings brought us to the startling realization that the Board members were distorting statements, recommendations and decisions. What they decided upon at their innumerable closed-door meetings is now questionable to us. It is a wonder why a highly respected professional Board member resigned? Apologies to her for our hindsight - we were misled!

I surely don't agree with everything Dario says. Often times he hits the nail right on the head. Rather than censure or limit Dario's right to be heard, I wish MORE people would speak out! This city needs more people to become involved, to show interest in what's going on, to CARE what happens, whether it be at city council meetings, in the bay, on the street or in the schools - anywhere.

The greatest strength of any social structure can be measured by the amount of effort its members are willing to give towards its preservation. It's surely easy to say, as all too many do, "Oh, I can't be bothered to go to city council meetings, to vote or to circulate a petition, etc." It takes a little gumption to get off one's fanny and say, "Hey, I think this and such is wrong" or "Why don't we try to do it another way?"

C.L. Anderson has done just this by proposing we go to the council meeting Feb. 13th. This sounds like a good idea to me, too. Let's have more folks saying more, not fewer saying less!

MARIAN HOYLE
Dear Sir:
After reading the 2/7/79 MAIL BAG letters I cannot but wonder at a letter signed I. A. MyGODE (such a resident does not appear on the McKinley Towers at Gateview roster of owners) and an unsigned "Signed by 22 members of the Dissatisfied Homeowners etc." letter filled with distorted data. Fact: the April 1978 election "totem-pole" tally below the 5 elected Board members was John Hatch 103, Sol Strand, 72, Mark Kolbick, 61, Luella Hanberry 49, Donna Reese 49; Sol was hardly the lowest because he WAS next in line since Mr. Hatch no longer resides here. His professional financial talents will be much appreciated by the homeowners.

I wonder if that "catch 22" feel there is a cathartic need to announce to the world their disagreement with the Board rather than working to correct it at the coming election and/or contributing their talents to various committees that could steer the Board in the direction they profess to desire. We have a garage structure that is cracking up and leaks like a sieve, all buildings roofing is deteriorating and leaks and the elevators are about to be shut down by the State for noncompliance with safety regulations. These problems and others are inherited and in dispute with the developer; is it any wonder that the Board is into administration and asking homeowners for assistance in resolving the problems.

I wonder if the personal attack upon the Board and Committee members is diversion to distract one from an unsubstantiated issue. Fact: we employ no professionals; there are professionals on the Board and Committees but are not compensated. Such abuse can discourage future sincere individuals from seeking office.

And, I wonder, what good is done to the career of a man with many competent years experience in apartment management by making him controversial to those unfamiliar with the entire situation. Fact: the restructuring of administration and maintenance services to the homeowners no longer required a position limited to his managerial talents.

Coincidentally, the 2/6/79 issue of the Wall Street Journal had a lead article on rumors; I excerpt as follows: "rumormongering can help an emotionally insecure person to gain status among friends, or can give a hostile person the satisfaction of 'getting even' with a company or with the system' for real or imagined grievances."; enough said.

EDITOR
Dear Sir:
The Feb. 7 issue of the Albany Times printed a report on the controversy over management at Gateview, and I feel it is necessary to clarify some of the statements made. Just to set the record straight, I would like to remind the members of the McKinley Towers Neighborhood Council of the following facts: (1) The vote taken at the Dec. 7 meeting of the board was not a vote to employ a management company to manage Gateview. It was to secure from BSD Associates administrative financial services. (2) There was NO mention of board intent to abolish the job of resident manager. Had this been the case I would not have voted in favor of the proposal.

Events leading to the contract with BSD Associates were the following: (1) The board reduced the office staff to one person. Since there was more work to do in the office than one person could comfortably handle, the secretary/bookkeeper was greatly overworked. However, despite this, the books were balanced every month, bills were paid promptly, late assessments were followed up, and our auditor had expressed the feeling that short handed as we were in the office, our business affairs were being taken care of efficiently. (2) This was not enough, though, for the president of the board. He wanted a monthly ANALYTICAL financial statement. (3) Because, due to time limitations, he could not get this, he blamed both the secretary and the manager. (4) He repeatedly made the flat, unsubstantiated charge that our manager was not performing satisfactorily. (5) Carrying on with this theme, he suggested that a management firm be hired to provide administrative services to "help" the manager.

Some of our residents became confused about the role and responsibilities of the manager, and the role and responsibilities of the clerical staff. They were led to believe that "something was wrong in the office" and the manager's deficiencies were "causing it." "He had to have help." "Frankly, I could never see why. The office was functioning well before the staff cut, and it continued to function, albeit with strain, after the personnel cut. As for Mr. Calloway, he had taken over the management of Gateview at a very difficult time. We were $58,000 in the hole, and vandalism was running riot. He was given the authority to straighten out our financial affairs, and to restore our buildings to a satisfactory physical condition. This he

On Jan. 15 I resigned from the board to protest board action in abolishing the position of resident manager, and adopting a staffing pattern that puts the board in a managerial role. I do not believe any of us were elected by the homeowners to take over the duties of the manager.

It is too late now to keep Mr. Calloway, and it will not be easy to replace him. However, I think it is in the interest of the homeowners to reestablish our own office, and to hire a resident manager to supervise the buildings and coordinate the personnel at Gateview.

Dear Sir:
It is Little League sign-up time, and that reminds me of Ed Wong, an active member of the Little League for seven years.

Ed has been assistant coach, coach, and players' agent, but this summer Ed, a P.G. & E. engineer, and Albany resident for 17 years, will move to Salinas, a farm country.

Albany will miss Ed Wong, a valuable member of the community. Albany needs more dedicated citizens like Ed Wong.

I salute Ed Wong and his family, and hope they will feel at home again in Salinas and regain their roots there.

Sincerely,

ALBANY - Next week a knock on Albany neighborhood doors will neither bring free gifts nor request money. Those knocking only want statistics.

That's what the Director of the Census Bureau's Regional Office in Seattle, John Tharaldson, promises when a survey of employment is conducted in Albany from February 19 to 23.

The survey is conducted for the U.S. Department of Labor in a scientifically designed sample of approximately 70,000 households in the United States.

Employment and unemployment statistics based on results of this survey are used to provide a continuing measure of the economic health of the Nation.

Information supplied by people participating in the survey is kept strictly confidential by law and the results are used only to compile statistical totals.

HOW AND WHY TO BUY THE RIGHT ENGINE OIL
FOR BETTER PERFORMANCE, USE OIL OF THE RIGHT QUALITY AND VISCOSITY.

Without enough oil in an engine, parts such as the pistons and bearings can literally melt from the heat caused by friction. Using the wrong kind of oil can also have a destructive effect. Either way, the engine can be seriously damaged.

A simple check of the oil level can prevent engine damage. If you're down one or more quarts, the engine will probably keep running for a while. But the shortage puts an extra burden on the oil that's left: it'll get dirty faster, reducing engine performance and increasing wear.

You'll get the most accurate results if you check the oil level after you've driven the car a fair distance. But wait at least a few minutes to allow the oil to drain back into the pan.

How often you need to add oil varies according to the age of your car, as well as how and where you drive. For example, new cars (those that have been driven less than 4,000 miles) may consume a little more oil until parts are broken in. Driving at high speeds, particularly in very hot weather, can also consume more oil. To be on the safe side, check the oil level every other time you get gas.

When you need oil, be sure to buy oil marked with the letters "SE." "SE" oil meets quality standards required by a GM engine: it has just the right mixture of base oil and additives.

It's generally all right to mix brands and to shop around for the lowest price as long as you stick with "SE" quality oil.

The viscosity of the oil can make a big difference in engine performance. Oil that's too thick won't flow properly, making it difficult to start the engine in cold weather. Oil that's too thin won't do the job right, either. Temperature affects viscosity: oil thickens in winter and thins in summer.

In most climates, it's best to use 10W30 or 10W40 SAE viscosity oil that you can leave in your car year-round.

Change the oil and the oil filter at the intervals recommended in your GM Maintenance Schedule. Engine oil contains detergents that pick up particles of dirt and sludge. If the oil isn't changed periodically, extensive damage can occur. Remember, if you're pulling a trailer or driving in abnormally dusty conditions, change the oil more often.

We're designing engines that require less routine maintenance. But some things are still up to you. A well-maintained engine will be more reliable, last longer, and probably make your car worth more when you decide to trade it in or sell it.

Tax tips on new forms from IRS

ALBANY — Northern California taxpayers filed almost 1,300,000 Form 1040A federal income tax returns in 1978. Michael Sassi, District Director of Internal Revenue Service for northern California, expects even more to be filed this year. His staff has supplied questions and answers concerning the Form 1040A, that could help the public decide whether to use the shorter form.

A: Is it okay to change forms, from Form 1040 to 1040A?

A: It is if the Form 1040A suits your situation. If the total of your itemized deductions is equal to or less than your zero bracket amount, you're better off filing Form 1040A. The zero bracket amount for married persons who file jointly is $3,200; for single persons it's $2,200; and for married persons filing separately, it's $1,600. If your itemized deductions are greater than the zero bracket amount, stay with Form 1040. But if the Form 1040A is suitable, don't hesitate to use it.

Q: Are there other factors that determine which form to use?

A: Yes, basic ones. Assuming you've decided not to itemize, your income must be $40,000 or less if you're married and filing a joint return, $20,000 or less if you're single or married and filing separately. Whatever the amount of income and filing status, the income must come from wages, salaries and tips, with not more than $400 in interest or dividends.

Q: What are the advantages of the Form 1040A?

A: It's easier. There are no Schedules to complete or attach—just the Forms W-2 (Wage Statements). The entire form is printed on one side of a page, so there's no need to flip back and forth. Calculations start at the top of the page and move step-by-step to the bottom, so the 1040A also takes less time to complete.

Q: Is there a way to get around all that math?
